Join Saladelia in Giving Back to Mukhanyo Christian Academy

PLEASE JOIN US AT SALADELIA CAFE ON SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 18TH FOR A DAY-LONG FUNDRAISER TO BENEFIT SOUTH AFRICA'S AIDS ORPHANS AND VULNERABLE CHILDREN.

Robert and Fida Ghanem, Saladelia's owners, will be donating a portion of their profits to Mukhanyo Christian Academy, a school that provides a free education, daily meals, healthcare, and other services to at-risk children in rural South Africa. So please enjoy all the gyros, souvlaki, tabbouleh, salads, baklava, and home-baked cookies you can possibly eat. And feel free to stock up for friends and family on your way out! It's all for a good cause, helping South African children who need our help to build a different kind of life: one that has a future and a hope.

Mukhanyo Christian Academy, a school for AIDS orphans and vulnerable children, was founded by a group of US and South African believers in January 2010. It currently offers two grades, Grade R (kindergarten) and Grade 1; we're currently raising funds to add a third grade, Grade 2, in January 2011, when the South African school year begins. We'd love to share our plans for growing the school: We'll have folks on hand at Saladelia to talk about the ministry and what's next for us.

Please invite your friends to dine out for a good cause at Saladelia Cafe on Saturday, September 18th. We appreciate it, and we guarantee your rumbling stomachs will, too!
